Ford Frick Takes to Golf Course

By WILL GRIMSLY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ford Frick, the former baseball commissioner, is fighting the restlessness of his retirement on the golf course—not at the ball parks.

That doesn't mean he has lost interest in the game he governed for years, he insists. He's just waiting for the weather to get hot.

"I don't like to go to night games and it's been awfully chilly in the afternoons," the 71-year-old ex-commissioner said today. "As soon as it warms up, I'll take a trip over to Yankee Stadium or Shea Stadium."

"Meanwhile, I'm keeping busy. I am playing a lot of golf. I'm trying to do a little writing—nothing commercial, understand—and I'm working on a committee for the State of Colorado seeking the 1976 Olympic Games. I haven't had much chance to get ready."

Frick, the bushy-haired one-time sports writer who served as commissioner for 15 years before stepping aside for Gen. William D. Eckert, said he is tremendously interested in but not worried about baseball's current wrangle with the courts.

"I had hoped to have these problems all settled and to leave the game in a relaxed state," he added. "But it's still suffering growing pains."

Frick said he believed baseball should be made subject to antitrust laws, but only the business facets.

Marichal Wins 7th in a Row by a Shutout

By HAL BOCK

Who'll lose a game first — the San Francisco Giants or Juan Marichal?

Running as an entry, the Giants and Marichal have become the scourge of the National League. Both extended lengthy winning streaks Thursday night — the Giants to 11 games and Marichal to seven — with a 3-0 victory over Pittsburgh.

San Francisco hasn't lost this month and Marichal hasn't lost this season. The ace right-hander lowered his earned run average to 0.76 with his second shutout.

Marichal allowed just six hits and struck out six for his sixth complete game. He has permitted just five earned runs in 59 innings.

The 11-game winning streak, longest in the majors this year, has opened a 4½-game lead for the Giants in the National League standings.

Second-place Houston was rained out at New York Thursday night. In other games, St. Louis opened its new stadium with a 4-3 victory over Atlanta in 12 innings and Philadelphia whopped Los Angeles 5-1. Cincinnati and Chicago were not scheduled.

In the American League, Minnesota edged New York 4-3, Chicago downed Baltimore 5-3 and Washington defeated California 42.

Marichal got the only run he needed on second-inning singles by Jim Hart, Jesus Alou and Ollie Brown against Pirate starter Bob Veale.

Hart homered in the fourth for San Francisco's second run and singles by Willie Mays and Brown and Donn Clendenon's error gave the Giants their final run in the eighth.

The Cardinals thrilled a crowd of 46,048 in their new park by rallying to tie Atlanta in the ninth and then beating the Braves in the 12th with Lou Brock's bases-loaded single driving in the winning run.

Felipe Alou's second home run of the night had given the Braves a 3-2 lead going into the bottom of the ninth. But Alex Johnson singled with one out and reached second on Marty Keough's error. Johnson moved to third on an infield out and then scooted home on Jerry Burch's looping single, tying the game at 3-3.

Dick Groat hammered a two-run homer and winning pitcher Jim Bunning stroked three hits as Philadelphia downed the Dodgers.

Groat's shot against Don Drysdale, now 2-4, erased and knocked Drysdale out in the early Los Angeles lead ninth. The Phillies produced by Jim Lefebvre's fifth and scored three more runs as John Callison and Doug Clemens tagged reliever Ron Perranoski for singles following hits by Bunning and Groat and a walk to Bill White.

Students to Take Tests to Escape Draft

EDITOR'S NOTE — Across the nation, American students by the hundreds of thousands are preparing to take their draft deferment tests. How important are the examinations — what bearing will a young man's score have on his chances of being inducted? What kind of questions are asked, and what's the background of the testing program? AP writer Barry Schwidler surveys the deferment test situation in this story.

By BARRY SCHWIDLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 350,000 to 400,000 college and graduate students will try to convince their draft boards Saturday they would serve the nation better in the quiet of their classrooms than in the jungles of Viet Nam.

The persuader: A three-hour 150-question draft deferment test given at 1,200 colleges and universities in the 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Panama Canal Zone.

Even a smashing score is no guarantee that the student will be deferred for the school year that begins in the fall, but most draft boards are likely to put great stock in the results. For as the head of a local draft board here put it, "We're doing everything possible to stimulate higher education."

The examinations, used from 1951 to 1963, were revived last March by Selective Service amid complaints by many leading educators that a class-standing yardstick alone was unfair to students in tougher colleges.

If the objective was to encourage the best talent to continue in higher education, they wondered aloud, how would this be served by drafting a low-ranked student attending a top college and deferring an inferior student who ranked near the top of a second-rate school?

The test was supposed to overcome this unfairness, but it quickly generated a fresh round of criticism.

The chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., likened the examinations to "Hitler's twin-system of eugenics and education" and said they "should have as wastrels on the top."

The gulf of Powell's argument was that the test would penalize poorly schooled Negroes and other minority groups and thus "bring the history of racial discrimination full cycle."

About the time this week that Powell was blasting the examinations at a news conference in Washington, Science Research Associates, a private agency giving the tests under a $1 million-plus government contract, was acknowledging in Chicago that there had been mixups in assigning students to test centers.

For his part, Mansfield sought a peacemaker's role. He acknowledged that Democrats differ on Viet Nam, but said they disagree on any major issue—and in the end, this always has strengthened the party.

And he said Johnson has the certainty of every Senate Democrat in bearing his foreign affairs burdens.

Birling, or log rolling, is a favorite sport of the North American lumberjack traceable to the early lumbering era in Maine. The idea is to maneuver your opponent off balance and into the water. Contests are usually held after the log drive reaches the sawmill. The world's first birling championship was held in 1898 at the Omaha, Neb., exposition.

Here is yesterday's hand all over again except that East failed to double six hearts and North was left to play that contract.

You may recall that we announced that North could make six hearts in spite of the bad trump break. Furthermore, only good play is required, not extraordinary play.

The opening lead makes no difference but let's assume that East opens a club, the unbid suit.

Dummy, (South) wins the trick and promptly leads a trump to North's ace. West shows out and North's cinch slam looks pretty bad but it is by no means hopeless. All that is necessary is correct timing provided that East has to follow to three leads of each side suit.

Two tricks have been played. The next eight tricks proceed as follows: Ace of diamonds. Spade to dummy's ace. Dummy's two last clubs on which North discards two spades. Diamond ruffed by North. King of Spades. Last spade ruffed by South. Another diamond ruffed by North.

Everyone is down to three cards and it is North's lead. He holds king-ten-six of hearts. East holds Queen-jack-eight of hearts and South holds the nine of hearts and a couple of diamonds.

North leads the six of hearts. East wins with the queen or jack and must lead a heart back to North.

East's second trump trick has turned out to be an optical illusion!

Future Of The
'Middle Class'

President Johnson has declared that he intends to eliminate poverty, raising the standard of living of the indigent and of those who earn less than $3,000 a year, through his Great Society. This is another way of saying that he is aiming at doing away with the "lower classes" as defined by economic standards, and that is the only standard the Great Society is using in its primarily if not totally materialistic approach. But if the present trend continues, the group that really will be eliminated is the "middle class," those who earn from, say, $8,000 to $15,000 a year. It is on this group that the income tax burden falls heaviest.

It will bear the greater share of any tax increase the administration may shove through Congress this year, or next year at the latest. It will pay for expansion of Medicare and higher old age benefits. This group produces the largest number of homeowners, college graduates, etc., and it takes every cent the head of the household earns. A major illness, catastrophic fire or a serious accident can put such a man so far into debt as to be "de facto" indigent. Yet he is not eligible for any sort of assistance except what he can scrounge in loans from his bank, by borrowing on his insurance and the like. The federal government won't even give him a break or so much as a delay on his income taxes.

If he is on a salary his employer is required by law to withhold from 10 to 20 per cent or more of his income and turn it over to the state and federal governments. He is paying for retirement and medical care for elderly persons while the odds are against his living long enough at today's pace to collect those benefits himself. The Great Society, it seems, is dedicated to bringing the poor, both the helpless indigent and the deliberately indolent, up to middle class standards. It now appears that rent subsidies, for a select few to start, enabling them to move into middle class neighborhoods with the government paying the difference between 25 per cent of their income and the rent on their homes, are assured.

The next step in this methodical madness probably will be guaranteed incomes, with the government providing the difference between what the indigent and the indolent are able or willing to work and earn what the bureaucrats consider a median standard of living. This will be created by federal subsidy of the individual a new middle class, living not by bread alone but on cake provided with tax money produced by the sweat of the brows of others.

Since it is written that the poor we will always have with us, it looks like these in the future may be those who are now in the middle income brackets. They simply can't stand the cost of the welfare state, on top of caring for themselves and their own. Yet, nobody feels sorry for them. Non-earners and lesser-earners envy them as having "it made." They are expected to contribute generously to any and every cause, and they get no sympathy when they give less than is asked or regrettably decline. Even the vote-seeking politicians all but ignore them, unless they happen to belong to labor unions.

As for the administrators of the Great Society, the salaries fixed for the primary and secondary echelons of command in the war on poverty place them in the upper middle class and makes them relatively secure from the hazards of private employment. It is they who may replace the producing middle class with a new, non-producing middle class. — Greenville (S.C.) News

Stock Market Again Takes a Big Decline

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices declined sharply today after a 15 per cent drop in automobile sales in the first 10 days of May was reported.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials lost 8.40 points to 877.17 in the first half-hour of trading.

Trading was heavy.

Only Ford Motor Co. among the four major automakers reported a sales increase in early May.

Opening of trading in General Motors was delayed because of an influx of orders. The issue closed Thursday at $84.87, off $1.50.

In early trading today, Chrysler was off $1.12 at $41, Ford was down 25 cents at $48.92 and American Motors was off 25 cents at $9.12.

State to Pay Part of Medicare Bill

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state will pay the deductible part of patients' hospital care under Medicare the first time each year that the patient is hospitalized, state Welfare Commissioner Jim Phillips said Wednesday.

Under the Medical Care Insurance program, patients pay the first $40 of the bill and the federal government pays the rest. Thus, if an eligible person is hospitalized more than once in a year, he will have to pay $40 the second and succeeding times.

Phillips said the state will not pay any of the $50 on doctor bills (the government pays the excess over $50), because it can't afford to. Arkansas will be reimbursed 80 per cent of the hospital payment by the federal government, Phillips said.

Third Day Girl Taken Still No Clue

HUNTINGDON, Pa. (AP) — State police called for more volunteers to continue the search in the mountains of rural southern Huntingdon County for the armed abductor of 17-year-old Peggy Ann Bradnick.

As the search entered its third day, police said they still have found no clues.

State police at the Huntingdon barracks said the search would "cover every square foot" of the heavily wooded area around Shade Gap where the abduction occurred late Wednesday afternoon.

Assisted by FBI agents and hundreds of volunteers carrying rifles and shotguns, more than 100 state troopers already had spent more than 24 hours tramping through the woods when darkness, dense fog and heavy rain halted the search Thursday night.

Johnson Signs Rent Subsidy Bill Into Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law today the first financing for the controversial rent subsidy and National Teacher Corps programs, and said they will help "take the light to all the dark places in this nation."

A year after the two programs were authorized, Congress voted $12.1 million for the rent subsidy plan to improve the housing of poor families and $9.5 million for a teacher corps to operate in slum schools. These sums are part of a $2.8-billion supplemental appropriation. Johnson signed to finance a host of federal agencies during the remaining weeks of the fiscal year that ends June 30.

The President signed the legislation at a rose garden ceremony outside his office in the presence of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, several Cabinet officers and leaders of Congress.

To the congressional representatives, he voiced a special plea—to make available "the funds we need—and we desperately need them—for the teacher corps" next fiscal year.

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Lynda Koolish, 19, a blonde coed at the University of California, is on probation because she booted an American Nazi in the pants.

Miss Koolish, a freshman, was given 30 days probation Wednesday by Municipal Judge Floyd Talbot on a charge of battery.

Impeachment Talk Blamed on Governor

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Wayne Hampton said Thursday that most of the talk he has heard about impeaching him or other members of the Highway Commission has come from one source—Gov. Orval Faubus.

And Hampton and other commission members said they were ready to defend themselves.

"I don't care who I tangle with, even Mr. Faubus," Hampton said.

"I'm ready to lay everything on the table and get with it," said Truman Baker of Searcy.

Faubus revealed Thursday that impeachment proceedings against the commission, or individual commissioners, could come at a special legislative session later this year.

Recurring reports about an impeachment attempt are efforts to intimidate their probe of $2.1 million in illegal Highway Department salary increases, the commissioners said.

Hampton, the commission chairman, said, "This is a move to get us to shut up about the investigation."

"We have stepped on his (Faubus') friend Sturgis' toes," Hampton said at his Stuttgart home.

He was talking about Mack Sturgis, Highway Department director just before the pay raise scandal broke. Sturgis returned to his former job as state purchasing agent April 1, before the raises were publicized.

Hampton said Sturgis, as director, "was very disappointing to me."

He said Faubus had recommended Sturgis' hiring, and "I regret that I had anything to do with hiring him," Hampton said.

The commission may soon reveal more "irregularities" in the department, Hampton said.

"I'm thinking the commission was lax for a short while," in trusting the department to run its affairs, "and things got in a mess while Sturgis was in there."

Faubus had other ideas about Sturgis' service.

He said the first talk of impeaching the commission came about 1½ years ago, when five state senators wanted to start the proceedings. He said the complaints were that the commissioners were running the Highway Department from their homes, offices and cars rather than through the Highway Department offices and its chain of command.

Faubus was asked if that was why Sturgis was sent to the department as director early in 1965.

"Let me put it this way," the governor replied. "When he went over there these complaints died down."

Faubus said not all five commissioners were involved in the impeachment talk, but he refused to identify those involved or the state senators he said wanted to start the impeachment proceedings.

A spot check of state senators Thursday produced no one who said he wanted to start the proceedings.

State Sen. Fred Stafford of Marked Tree, who criticized the legislation at a rose garden ceremony outside his office in the presence of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, several Cabinet officers and leaders of Congress.

To the congressional representatives, he voiced a special plea—to make available "the funds we need—and we desperately need them—for the teacher corps" next fiscal year.

"If there had been, I think I'd have been one of the first people they would have talked to," he said.

Stafford said many people are dissatisfied because the commission has been discriminatory in its road building, but he said they are not ready for impeachment.

Hampton said he had been receiving indirect pressure to "ease up and cool off" before the Legislative Joint Auditing Committee hearing May 27 into the highway pay raises.

The raises were cancelled shortly after they were revealed publicly.

Faubus said a special session sometime after the July 26 party primaries would deal mainly with consolidation of the state's two tuberculosis sanatoriums and getting additional space for work with handicapped children.

Marines Wipe Out a Large Cong Force

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Marines wiped out most of a Viet Cong force in South Viet Nam Thursday, while American planes downed their 12th Communist MIG over North Viet Nam, U.S. spokesmen announced.

The U.S. command in Saigon says a MIG-17 is downed 20 to 25 miles south of the Chinese border. Red China claims it was a Chinese plane over Chinese territory.

North Viet Nam is risking more jets in combat because the daily pounding by U.S. planes is hurting an Air Force commander says.

The United States increased its helicopter fleet in South Viet Nam to give ground troops greater mobility.
